In this regard, the survival and proliferation of free-roaming dogs is relevant. Longer living and healthier animals can positively contribute to an increased herd immunity. Therefore, a healthy free-roaming dog population can help us to achieve that all-important 70% coverage in at-risk areas. #OneHealth #WRD2022 #HDPM #1health4rabies |  A graphic about waste management. It features a circular image of a ginger kitten sitting on a blue, textured surface. Below the circle, the words 'waste management' are written in a curved path. To the left, there is a cartoon illustration of a dog's head with a heart above it. The background has decorative blue and yellow wavy lines. |

As recent examples such as COVID and antimicrobial resistance have shown the world, the health of people, animals and the environment are all inextricably linked and interdependent. The importance of One Health is also evident through the discussions and its mention in the G20 summit (2020) among other major platforms, as well as the development of the WHO NTD roadmap and the One Health companion document that specifically mention #rabies. Rabies elimination exemplifies the One Health approach, with participation and collaboration from human, animal, and environmental health sectors on all levels - local, national and international - being fully inclusive in the battle towards rabies elimination. #WRD2022 #1health4rabies |  |
